

Patch finds Healing Touch for Animals®

by Carol Komitor

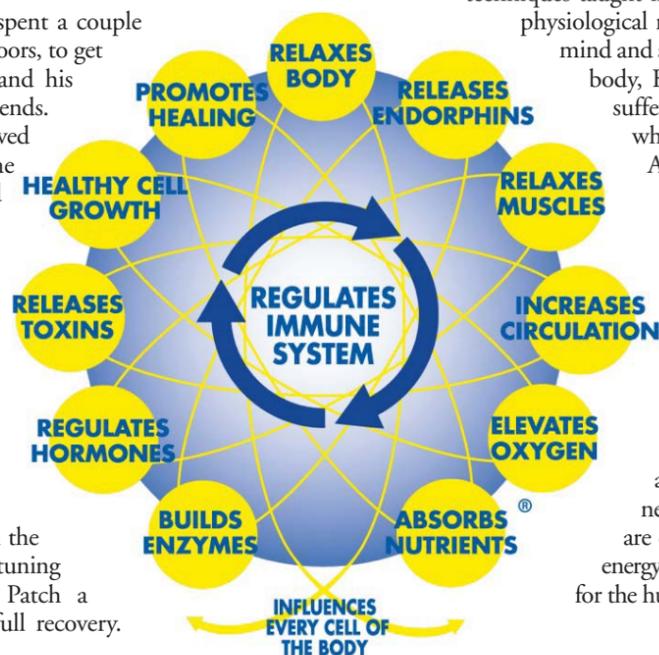

Patch, a handsome, orange, bulls-eye tabby, was adopted by Carol Komitor during a visit to her local shelter. Dropped off at the shelter after being hit by a car, Patch received a severe injury to his left eye and muscle damage to his left front leg. After several weeks of treatment to the eye, the shelter veterinarians were unable to save it and removed the eye surgically. The cat was ready for adoption.

Carol walked through the adoption center after a non-related meeting with the shelter officials. It seemed as if Patch was waiting for her. The bright blue sutures provided indication of his recent enucleation. His spirit and willingness to connect to a human was remarkable. He engaged with everyone that walked by, but there seemed to be an instant bond between Patch and Carol. She wasn't intimidated by the loss of his eye and could see through the sutures and found his sweet and engaging personality.

Carol knew her Healing Touch for Animals® (HTA) skills would assist Patch with his healing process and help him integrate easily into his forever new home. She was delighted to bring him in as a wonderful addition to her family and office environment.

When Patch first arrived home, he spent a couple days in a small room, behind closed doors, to get acquainted. Through the door, he and his new brother, Truman, became fast friends. During his welcome home, Patch received daily HTA sessions. The use of the energy medicine techniques provided him physical comfort from the pain at the surgical site and to his left shoulder and elbow, which were also injured during his accident. The enucleation healed quickly and he soon made his way easily around his new surroundings. Patch quickly became a valued member of the household as Truman accepted him for a playful and constant friend.

Traditional veterinary care along with the HTA techniques including the use of tuning forks and essential oils, provided Patch a well-rounded régime of care for a full recovery.

HTA gave patch the energetic balance needed to stimulate healing and the essential oils offered comfort for his painful elbow and added a sense of calm to help with all the recent life changes he experienced.

Patch was named upon his arrival home, for Carol's love of quilting and for the obvious, bright blue sutures he wore on his face. All in all, Patch has become a vital part of Carol's life and he offers loving support for Truman and everyone who works in the HTA office. As for having just one eye, he sees perfectly!

Healing Touch for Animals® (HTA) is an energy therapy that supports the body to self-heal. In HTA, specific techniques are used or applied to create a balanced energy system and a sense of deep relaxation. All techniques taught in the program provide the natural physiological responses needed to heal the body, mind and spirit. By energetically balancing the body, HTA is used to help animals who suffer from illnesses, injuries and those who are recovering from surgery. Animals who experience stress related issues or exhibit behavioral problems also benefit from HTA.

The energy system of animals is different than humans. The animal's energy system and instinctual presence allows them a greater awareness of all things around them. Their energy system monitors their safety and allows them to activate the fight or flight response, if necessary. Humans on the other hand, are energetically contained in a smaller energy system than animals, which is perfect for the human species to function properly.

HOLISTIC CARE

Healing Touch for Animals® combines philosophies, techniques and applications to promote energy balance and healing of our animals while providing physical, emotional, mental and instinctual stability. Stabilizing the energy system allows the natural regulation of the immune system which encourages the healing process and promotes well-being. HTA Practitioners use their intention and HTA energy techniques to support the animals and work as a cooperative presence with veterinary medicine.

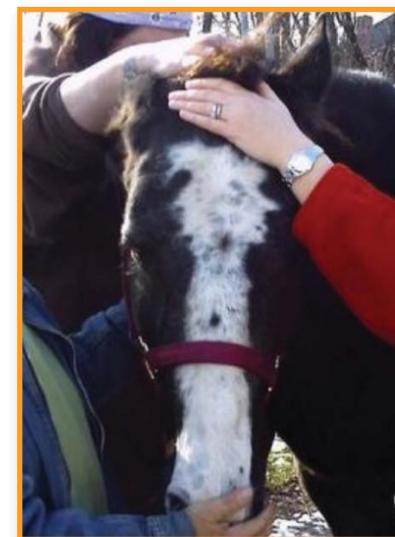

Through deep relaxation, the HTA techniques help release endorphins and create a domino effect of body response and function that leads to wellness. The endorphins released cause the muscles to relax. The relaxed muscles allow increased circulation which brings more oxygen, nutrients, and hormones into the body to support healing. The increased circulation also helps release toxins and helps support healthy cell growth. This whole process aids the body to support proper immune function and a healthier physical, mental, emotional and instinctual body. These techniques allow animals to come into a deeper instinctual presence and knowing of their body.

"All that I have done thus far, has led me to my life's work and to the joy I experience while working with animals and their people", says Komitor.
